

Land Stewardship Volunteer requests, fall 2025

Eco-anxiety got you down? Do you love caring for the land? Consider helping the Eliza Place Land Stewardship team who is looking for volunteers with particular skills or passion:

- Fundraising - Resources are needed to start doing significant land stewardship including contracted invasive species removal and tree planting. We're looking for a few people who care about the land and are willing to work to raise money to support these stewardship activities.
- Rare trees - We're looking for volunteers to find, propagate and get permission to plant rare and threatened trees. Currently we're thinking about eastern hemlock, red mulberry 'healthy' butternut, and emerald ash borer resistant blue and white ash.
- Trail cam - We're looking for a volunteer with a trail camera to help us better understand what other creatures are using this land.
- Goats/livestock - We're looking for someone with goat or livestock experience or passion that can help us better understand livestock and invasive plant management options.
- Small project constructions - We need someone that can build a boot brush stand to prevent invasive species from leaving the property and would like a picnic table for use on the property.
